Disaster Message Service

When a major disaster occurs, telephone lines become congested and difficult to connect. In that case, you can use the Disaster Emergency Message Dial service or "Disaster Emergency Message Board service" provided by the telephone company.

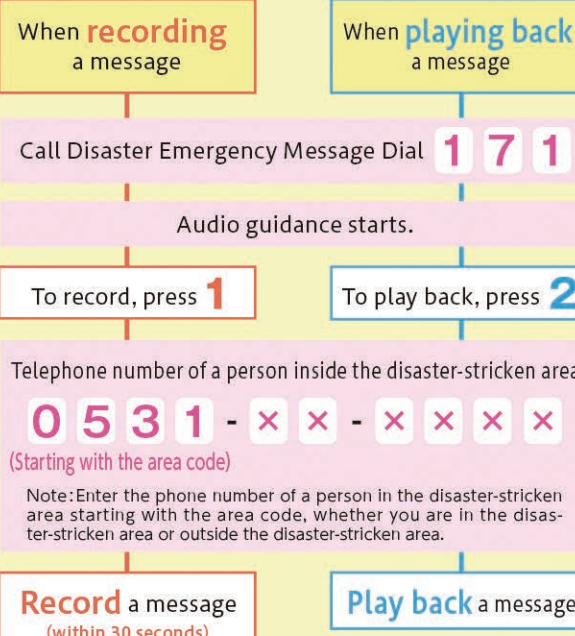

Disaster Emergency Message Board service

Access "Web171.jp" or search for "Web171"

Note: The phone number of a person inside the disaster-stricken area should start from the area code, or the cell-phone number.

Tahara City Hazard Map

This hazard map was prepared so that you can deepen your understanding of the disaster risk in your area and think about evacuation actions and timing that are suitable for you by imagining an actual disaster.

In the event of an emergency, discuss with your family, neighbors, and members of your voluntary disaster prevention association about dangerous areas around you, evacuation shelters, evacuation sites, and evacuation routes.
