Festival / History

Floats expressing the culture of the castle town

The history of the Tahara Festival dates back to the Edo Period (1603-1868). It is said to have begun as a festival rite for Kumano Shrine. Intricate mechanical dolls mesmerize the audience.

Watanabe Kazan

Known as a great scholar, artist and statesman in the end of Edo period, Watanabe Kazan was one of the ministers of Tahara Han, a feudal domain.

Industry / Commerce

Tahara Rinkai Industrial Zone

The coastal industrial zone adjacent to Mikawa Bay has been home to Toyota Motor Corporation's Tahara Plant since the 1970s, attracting numerous automotive-related companies to the area. In addition to wind and solar power facilities, recent years have seen the establishment of several biomass power plants, promoting a harmonious industrial complex that fosters both manufacturing and renewable energy sectors.

Blessings of the earth and the sea

Blessed with a mild winter, Tahara City has the longest hours of sunlight, and the highest number of clear days in Japan. It is one of the major agricultural areas in Japan and vegetable production ranks as one of the top in Japan.

The city is also celebrated for its exquisite, attractive seafood, including clams, whitebait, and seaweed. Toyogawa River's mineral-rich water flows into Mikawa Bay to create the perfect concentration of salt for short-necked clams to grow.

Stock farm product shipment ranks top in the prefecture. Beef, pork, chicken, eggs, milk, all items necessary for cooking are all produced in Tahara.

Tahara City, the number-one producer of flowers in Japan, is working to become a "world-class city of flowers" where not only in production but also everyone becomes familiar with and enjoys the "best flowers in Japan."
